INDIA & THE SUB-CONTINENT – FOOD & WINE

Just like the culture, the food of India and the sub-continent has also been influenced by a lot of civilizations that has helped in development of various cooking styles. Kashmiri, Awadhi, Rajasthan, Malabar, Maharastrian, Gujarathi, Andra, Sri Lanka, Nepali and Bengali are some of the varied cooking styles. Whenever you visit the sub-continent, going on a Food Tour is a chance not to be missed. We at Bespoke India Holidays provide exemplary food tours with extremely knowledgeable guides and best hygiene.

WHAT MAKES US SPECIAL:

CHEF TOURS: Private and specialised professional Chefs are sourced by us for your better understanding of the food.

KNOWLEDGEABLE GUIDES: All the guides provided by us are English speaking & knowledgeable about the subject. In remote locations and markets, we source guides who have deep understanding of local cuisine

HEALTH & HYGIENE: We take utmost care of Hygiene for all our guests and make sure they are only taken to healthy & hygienic places.

CONSIDERATION OF FOOD ALLERGIES: Before commencing any food tour, we consider Food Allergies of all our guests and suggest the local cuisines accordingly.

PERSONALISED COOKING SESSIONS: Bespoke has contacts with local families who are experts in their local cuisine. You get to spend time with these families and learn about cooking and local customs.

TRUST & TRANSPARENCY: Transparency in pricing and at every step of our interaction with you is our guiding principle. With no hidden costs or unpleasant shocks, we have gained our clients' trust.

TOP FOOD & WINE EXPERIENCES

Jaipur Food Tour: Jaipur is a hub of all sorts of food. This place consists of authentic Rajputana style food along with a new era fusion. Food Tour in this city gives a different perspective about Indian cuisine.

Cooking classes in India, Nepal, Sri Lanka or Bhutan: The best way to learn Indian Cuisine is from a local family. We can arrange private cooking sessions with local families where you will learn the art of cooking the local cuisine.

Having food at local temples: The local Sikh temples serve food everyday to all the devotees. You can also try your hand in helping make the delicacies and then have the food served here – its truly a blissful experience.

Delhi Food Tour: Visit region's oldest spice market, taste the best and safe street food and interact with different business owners who are there from several generations.

Wine tour of Nashik: Nashik is a small town in the state of Maharashtra and is also known as the Wine Capital of India. Explore this region with a guide who is also a sommelier and get to know more about the unique process of making wines in India. You can stay at a treehouse, engage yourself in a plantation walk and get a heady dose of fun with vineyard factory visits and tastings various kinds of wine.

Kochi Food Tour: Kochi is a beautiful coastal city of Kerala – God's Own Country. This place offers food that is at a different level. A true food enthusiast will always like to visit Kochi for its variety. Cochin knows how to make a curry or a dessert out of the same ingredient, which we can say is their speciality.

Make your own Tea tour in Munnar: Munnar is a scenic hilly place in Kerala known for its Tea Estates. Here you can visit a Tea Estate, learn about variety of Tea and can experience a special Make Your Own Tea tour.

Local Beer Brewery tour in Paro: Visit the local beer brewery in Paro and learn about the art of the brewing beer. Get a taste of freshly brewed beer while enjoying the serenity of this kingdom.

Private Tea tour of Colombo: Just like wine tasting a special private tour of sip-and-spit session can be arranged for you, where you can learn to distinguish between various types of locally grown teas.

8 DAYS OF FOOD UP WITH SOUTH INDIA

8 DAYS OF FOOD UP WITH SOUTH INDIA

Kerala is tantalizingly attractive, so is its cuisine. Its cuisine is tilted towards the liberal use of fresh coconuts and spices. Chutneys and pickles seem to be an inevitable part of the cuisine. From simple vegetarian food to sophisticated sea food, all occupy a prized place in Kerala cuisine.

A variety of non-vegetarian dishes are also a part of the cuisine. One of the best features of Kerala cuisine is that use of oil, sugar and artificial additives is kept to a minimum, which makes it healthy. A typical traditional meal in South India is served on a freshly cut banana leaf, which is quite appealing. This tour takes you to experience the cuisine and culture of Kerala.

Testimonial

They are polished professionals and will ensure that you have first class accommodations, safe transportation, Service on the ground to get you in and out of domestic airports, and great travel guides. When we had a few snags on the ground (through no fault of theirs) and needed assistance, we were able to reach bespoke India holidays, day or night.

Neil Osborne
( Luxury India Tour with family )

I was particularly impressed with their level of knowledge & responsiveness to my questions during the preparation phase. All the location tour guides were excellent & all vehicles / drivers were of a high quality. If we had any problems they were quickly resolved by the locally appointed representative. I would happy recommend their services to anyone who wishes to see India at it's best.

Gordon Muirhead
( Luxury India tour and Nepal Tour with family )

Testimonial

All the services including guide, chuffeurs were courteous and excellent. We would definitely use Bespoke again in the near future...

Barry King
( India tour with friends )

Except for Varanasi where we could not get the hotel we wanted, the Dalai Lama was in town. We were VIP in all the other hotels we requested. Definitely recommend this company, which operates from India with "American Standard" making it very competitive with the US based ones.

KakhyTze
( Luxury India tour and Luxury Maldives tour on 40th Marriage Anniversary )

The best part of the India tour was the Houseboat. In all it was a great experience and I look forward to booking another trip with Bespoke India Holidays soon.
